Summary

I'm a self-taught frontend web developer with a background in musicology and violin performance. I've completed several courses from SheCodes and have a strong foundation in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, React, and other essential technologies.

My background as a musician has taught me valuable skills that transfer over to the tech industry, such as perfectionism, collaboration, discipline, creative problem-solving, and self-directed continuous learning. I'm committed to personal growth and delivering quality work, and love learning new skills.
